

James M. Gallagher, PMP

Associate of The Dayton Group

Specialized Skills: Executive Development, Procurement, International Efforts

Education: Master of Public Administration, University of Dayton, 1969
Bachelor of Science, Engineering, U. S. Naval Academy, 1957
Project Management Professional (PMP) certified

Numerous continuing education courses, including completion of the American Management Association's Management Course and the National and International Security Seminar, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Current: Member of international Board of Directors of The Project Management Institute (PMI) and is the PMI manager of the American Project Management Forum (APMF) that forges links between industry, academia and government. He is a member of the Board of Visitors for the Defense Acquisition University (DAU). Past president of The Dayton Group.

Prior Experience:

Director, Center for Executive Development and Project Management, College of Business and Administration, Wright State University, (1986-1995)

Developed, marketed and participated in the presentation of executive development programs for the business school. Established the Center for Project Management. Developed and presented continuing education courses in project management. Served as liaison for the university with the hi-technology corporate community and the DOD establishments in the region. For two years, served as the Director, Center for Economic Education, responsible for a nine county region in Ohio. Also, served as Assistant Professor, Management Department, teaching management and leadership courses.

Director, Acquisition Logistics, Air Force Logistics Command (1983-1986)

Served as a member of the Senior Executive Service (SES), and represented the command to industry and other Air Force and DOD organizations on all acquisition logistics matters.

Assistant to the Commander, International Logistics Center (ILC), Air Force Logistics Command (1980-1983). As an SES worked with a staff of over 400 military and civilian employees in the ILC and with other DOD organizations and the air forces of over 50 allied countries on all acquisition logistics matters.

Assistant Program Director, F-16 System Program Office, USAF Aeronautical Systems Division (1977-1980). Senior civilian in the program office charged with the acquisition of the F-16 aircraft.

Senior U. S. representative to the Contractual and Financial Subcommittee of the F-16 Multinational Steering Committee, working extensively with the four participating European partners in the program.

Assistant Deputy, Airlift /Tanker Programs (1975-1977), Assistant Program Director, F-4 System Program Office (1973-1975), and Director of Projects and Configuration Management, AGM-69 (SRAM) Program Office (1962-1973), USAF Aeronautical Systems Division.

Senior management capacity in these major acquisition program organizations. Responsible for developing acquisition policy and dealing with personnel of both contractor and operating and supporting command organizations.

Co-editor, Military Project Management Handbook, (1993). Cleland, Gallagher, Whitehead, McGraw-Hill, New York, NY.